Illinois' 2015 Climate Action Plan

The U of I is in the process of updating its Illinois Climate Action Plan. This has been an inclusive, bottom-up process that began with six topical teams of students, staff, and faculty and is expected to conclude with a group consisting of top-level campus decision makers. I will briefly outline the process we have followed, and then discuss the key recommendations in the current draft of the new plan. Community input is most welcome, and there will be a formal public comment period in April.
